

My thoughts on OBOR

By Zhao Jianglin

October 10-11, 2016 Beijing, China

Some questions to be answered

- Why is OBOR Proposed by China?
- What will China Want to get from OBOR?

Why is OBOR Proposed by China?

- Old question but still not clear answer

(1)Our Philosophy: the result of industrialization should be enjoyed equally by all the people in the world, not limited to the minority.

(2)Our Path: China's model is at least in half the battle, its valuable experience especially for the developing countries with the large population (we have solved the 1.3 billion people of food and clothing and some have stepped into the middle income).

(3)Our Proposal: China hopes to be hand-in-hand with other developed and developing countries for the economic and social development.

What will China Want to get from OBOR?

- This is a sensitive question: Is the OBOR totally not self-serving for China but especial for the OBOR countries ?
 - (1) China needs external support such as the technologies, the potential consumer market (targeting the OBOR countries), and resources supply from the outside for its next stage of development (from the developed to both the developed and developing countries)
 - (2) China needs stable and peaceful peripheral environment
 - (3) China wants to be a new-generation “leader” leading the OBOR countries to be dedicated to the peaceful, common, and sustainable development.

Thank you for your Attention!